The John Miles County Park is an approximately 60-acre park owned by the County of Door. The park is located on N. 14th Avenue in the City of Sturgeon Bay, approximately one-half mile west of State Highway 42-57. Originally called Door County Fairgrounds, the park became part of the Door County Parks System in 1990 and renamed to Door County Fair Park. In 2001, it was renamed John Miles County Park, due to the fact that more than just the county fair takes place there.

John Miles County Park has long been considered to have greater potential than currently being used for serving recreational needs within the community. In the beginning of this year, county officials initiated a study to look into how the park might be better utilized and requested the Door County Parks and Land Use Services (previously "Planning") Departments to draft a recreational plan for the park. A second phase to consider the entire park, including non-recreational buildings and grounds, is planned to begin after the recreation plan is complete.
